

The curve shifts right as the data gets less repetitive

R^* rises with unique information, not with training volume

